Re: Successfully Completed Biddings

Dear Undersecretary Medenilla:

This refers to your letter,<sup>1</sup> seeking clarification and guidance as to when bidding is considered as successfully completed.

A procurement project shall be considered successfully completed once the contract has been awarded to the winning bidder.<sup>2</sup> Thus, the declaration of failure of bidding is not what the law and rules intended as sufficient to constitute a successfully conducted bidding. This is further supported by Section 5(e)<sup>3</sup> of Republic Act No. 9184 which defines competitive bidding as a method of procurement which is open to participation by any interested party and covers the period of advertisement up to award of contract.

Stated differently, a procurement project, the bidding of which resulted in a failure, may only be considered as successfully completed once the contract has been awarded to the winning bidder. In fine, what is material for the procuring entity to consider, in determining whether there is a successful completion of a procurement project, is if the contract has been awarded to the winning bidder.

This opinion was made on the basis of the particular facts presented and circumstances availing, and may not, therefore, be applicable given a different set of facts and circumstances.

We hope to have sufficiently clarified the matter at hand.

Sincerely yours,

ROWENA CANDICE M. RUIZ
